

School social work

School social work is available at almost all schools in the Birkenfeld district. In the areas of school and vocational training, they support children and young people in their age-appropriate development and social integration.

The school social workers offer help and support in everyday school life, but also in crisis situations. In this way, we create conditions that enable children and young people to succeed in their everyday school lives.

Support through school social work is aimed at:

- children and adolescents
- their parents
- and teachers

School social work is active in many areas. It therefore relates not only to the school, but also to the community and pupils' social environment.

Its tasks include:

- Group programmes (e.g. programmes to strengthen the class community, social skills training, prevention projects, teaching conflict resolution strategies)
- Individual case support (support and counselling for pupils and their parents/guardians)
- Collaboration in school development
- Support with school projects
