Freetime, Culture, Religion, Sports

Hannover offers many opportunities for leisure activities. These include, for example, cultural and sporting activities. There are also many places where you can meet other people of your religion or denomination.

District culture

District cultural institutions are places for culture, education and coming together.

All people, regardless of age, origin or gender, are invited to use the spaces and activities on offer or to get involved themselves.

More information on district culture can be found  here.

In addition to leisure centers and cultural centers, there are also open bookcases in almost all districts. Books can be borrowed there, but you can also hand in your own book donations. The bookcases are accessible around the clock. A map with all locations can be found on the  website.

Playgrounds and Football pitches

Playgrounds and Football pitches

The playgrounds, football pitches and play parks in the city offer a wide range of games: ropeways, sand and mud areas, water games, climbing animals, swings, rope bridges, playhouses and entire climbing worlds. Here, children can test themselves, experience their environment through play, learn social interaction, simply let off steam and even be a little louder sometimes.

You can find more information about Hannover's playgrounds and bolts, fitness trails and skate parks on this  website. A map with all 446 playgrounds in the city can be found  here.

Sports

There are many ways to do sports in Hannover: In a club, at a gym or privately.

Sports Clubs

There are almost 400 sports clubs in Hannover. You have to be a member of a club to play sports there. For this you pay a regular fee. In many sports clubs you can then practice different sports.

Find a sports club

There is a  search engine for sports clubs in Lower Saxony. There you will also find all clubs in Hannover. Select the sport in the first menu. Write "Hannover" in the second line. Then you will be shown only clubs in Hannover. The page is only available in German.

Sports projects for refugees

Coordination Office for Sports and Refugees

The coordination office (Koordinierungsstelle Sport und Geflüchtete) offers advice on the topic of sports clubs, financing membership fees and networking.

Move2gether

The sports project Move2gether, organized by the Support Group for Refugee Accommodation (Unterstützerkreis Flüchtlingsunterkünfte) in cooperation with the Coordination Office for Sports and Refugees (Koordinierungsstelle Sport und Geflüchtete) and the Hanover Sports Association (Stadtssportbund Hannover), offers a monthly opportunity to try out different types of sports. Once a month, a group of interested people goes to a sports club and learns about a new sport.

Religion

Freedom of religion / Religious freedom

In Germany, freedom of religion applies. This is guaranteed by the constitution (Grundgesetz). You can live out your faith as you see fit, as long as you do not violate the constitution. You must also not be discriminated against on the basis of your religion, for example when looking for work. Freedom of religion also means accepting the beliefs of others. Germany has no state church. State and religion are separate.

This means, for example:

- All people are free to choose and practise their own religion and faith.
- All people have the freedom not to be religious - those who do not believe in God are allowed to say so publicly.
- People of different religions and beliefs are allowed to marry each other.
- Marriage only counts as legally valid in front of the registry office. Marriages concluded exclusively within the framework of a religion are not legally binding in Germany.
- Religious laws do not determine the legal system in Germany

House of Religions

Nine religious and ideological communities have joined forces in the House of Religions:

Alevism

Bahaism

Buddhism

Christianity

Yezidism

Hinduism

Humanism

Islam

Judaism

Together they advocate an attitude of interest, respect and esteem for others.

The House of Religions is a venue for interfaith encounters. It is also a place of learning for children and young people. The House of Religions also hosts training courses for professionals.
