General information

Why learn German?

Learning a new language in a new country is a major challenge, but it's also the most important stepping stone towards integrating successfully. Learning a language is about more than just learning a language. It promotes and strengthens self-confidence, helps with individual development and opens up new cultural, social and economic prospects.

If you're proficient in a country's language, you'll be able to find your way around society, gain independence and have the opportunity to successfully take part in education and employment, as well as building up a social life. This is why the City of Krefeld is committed to helping immigrants pick up language skills as soon as possible.

You can find concise information on the topic of language acquisition, suitable options for courses and advice, and helpful tools and communication aids on the following websites.

Language levels

Language levels

There are different language levels to indicate a person's language skills. In language courses and integration courses, the levels according to the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages are used:

A distinction is usually made as follows:

- A1: Beginner
- A2: Basic knowledge
- B1: Advanced language use
- B2: Independent use of the language
- C1: Specialised language use
- C2: Almost native speaker level

The six levels mean in detail:

A1: Beginner

You can understand and use simple words and sentences. You can converse with a person if they speak slowly and clearly.

A2: Basic knowledge

You can understand sentences and frequently used words. You can communicate in simple, everyday situations. You can describe your background, education and environment.

B1: Advanced use of language

You can understand a lot, for example on the topics of work, school or leisure. You can say something about familiar topics and your interests. You can report on events and describe hopes and goals. You can give short explanations.

B2: Independent use of language

You can understand the main content of complex texts. You can understand specialised discussions in your field of specialisation. You can communicate spontaneously and fluently and hold a conversation with native speakers without effort. You can express yourself clearly and in detail and take part in discussions.

C1: Specialised language skills

You can understand a lot of demanding, longer texts. You also grasp implicit meanings. You can express yourself spontaneously and fluently. You can express yourself clearly, in a structured and detailed manner on complex topics.

C2: Almost native speaker level

You can understand practically everything you read or hear. You can summarise information from written and oral sources. You can express yourself spontaneously, very fluently and precisely. You can also make clear finer nuances of meaning in more complex situations.

Meaning of the language levels

In some situations, you need a certain language level:

For example, language level B is recommended if you want to start an apprenticeship or a job. As a rule, you do not need to show a certificate.

A B1 certificate, on the other hand, is a prerequisite for a settlement permit or naturalisation, for example.

For certain professions, but above all for studying, you will need a C1 certificate.

 Caution: Not all C1 examinations are accepted for university studies. Ask your university about this.

Do I need a certificate?

In the situations explained below, you either need a certificate confirming your German language level or it is very much recommended.

Application for an apprenticeship or job

A certificate confirming your German language level improves your chances of getting an apprenticeship placement or job. You can stand out better compared with other applicants if you have a certificate.

Vocational further education or qualification

You often need a specific German language level to take part in vocational qualification courses. Often you need to prove this with a certificate.

Access to studying at higher-education colleges and universities

You can prove sufficient German language proficiency to undertake a course at a higher-education college or a university with one of these certificates:

- German Language Diploma of the Standing Conference of the Ministers of Education and Cultural Affairs (second ability level)
- DSH2
- TestDaf, ability level 4 in all 4 subsections.
- Assessment test (= attendance of the Studienkolleg / preparatory college. No further tests necessary)
- Certificates that are recognised by bilateral agreement or other agreements recognised by the Kultusministerkonferenz (Standing Conference of the Ministers of Education and Cultural Affairs, KMK) or the Hochschulrektorenkonferenz (German Rectors' Conference, HRK)
- Goethe Institute examinations at level C1 or C2
'telc Deutsch C1 Hochschule'
- Completed German language and literature studies (not education studies)
- Leaving certificate at Gymnasium, Studienkolleg, Fachhochschule or Hochschule level

For an unlimited residence permit (Niederlassungserlaubnis / settlement permit)

For a Niederlassungserlaubnis (settlement permit) you have to prove sufficient knowledge of German. This is possible with the certificate after successful participation in the 'German test for migrants' (DTZ) integration course. A German school-leaving qualification can also serve as a certificate of German competency.

For naturalisation (getting German citizenship)

In addition to a certificate proving sufficient German language knowledge, you also have to prove knowledge about the legal and societal rules as well as the way of life in Germany. This could be the 'Life in Germany' test, for example. This test is the final qualification of the orientation course (a part of the integration course).

Important test certificates

Integration course certificate

This certificate is one of the requirements for the settlement permit \(Niederlassungserlaubnis\) to be issued and will make your naturalisation \(Einbürgerung\) easier. With this certificate you can already apply for German citizenship after seven (instead of the usual eight) years of legal residence in Germany, as per the Citizenship Act (§ 10 Para. 3 Sentence 1 StAG)

To obtain the certificate you have to reach the total result of B1 in the language test 'Deutsch-Test für Zuwanderer' (DTZ; German Test for Immigrants) and then pass the test on 'Leben in Deutschland' (LiD; Life in Germany).

'Deutsch-Test für Zuwanderer' (DTZ; German Test for Immigrants)

The DTZ consists of a written and an oral exam. The written exam lasts 100 minutes and contains listening, reading and writing exercises. The oral part of the exam lasts around 15 minutes.

If you don't pass the DTZ the first time, the Federal Office for Migration and Refugees (BAMF) can allow you to repeat 300 tuition hours and to repeat the oral exam for free.

The DTZ is used in the General Integration Course, and a variation on the test is also used in the Youth Integration Course.

'Leben in Deutschland' (Life in Germany) test

The 'Leben in Deutschland' (Life in Germany) test takes place after an orientation course. It includes questions on the political system in Germany, religious diversity and gender equality, for example.

Further information and preparation

You can find further information on the two types of test as well as model tests on the BAMF website.

The free app 'Leben in Deutschland' can help you prepare for the 'Leben in Deutschland' test.

Test certificates to access universities and higher education

The language of instruction at universities in Germany is generally German. For this reason, you have to prove your knowledge of German in order to access university studies. There are exceptions, however, such as international degree courses.

If German is required, you have to prove your knowledge of German with one of two approved exams: The 'Deutsch als Fremdsprache' (TestDaF, German as a Foreign Language) test or the 'Deutsche Sprachprüfung für den Hochschulzugang' (DSH, German Language Exam for Access to Higher Education).

You do not require a separate German test in the following cases:

- university-entrance qualification (Abitur) at a German-speaking school
- Neues Goethe-Zertifikat (C2: Großes Deutsches Sprachdiplom) or one of the previous exams (Kleines Deutsches Sprachdiplom / Großes Deutsches Sprachdiplom)

- Zentrale Oberstufenprüfung from the Goethe Institut (up to 2011)
- Goethe-Zertifikat C2: Großes Deutsches Sprachdiplom (since 2012)
- Deutsche Sprachdiplom (Stufe II) – German Conference of State Education Ministers
- ‘telc Deutsch C1 Hochschule’ exam

💡 Please ask your chosen university what requirements you have to fulfil in order to study there!

The Goethe-Institut’s website features a short, free placement test. If your knowledge of German is still not enough, you can also attend a language course in Germany. Lots of universities offer language courses, particularly in the semester holidays.

You can find more information in the DAAD-Datenbank für Sprach- und Fachkurse \(DAAD database for language and specialist courses\).

‘Deutsch als Fremdsprache’ (TestDaF, German as a Foreign Language)

You can take the TestDaF in your home country. You can find out about exam locations, dates, prices, application possibilities and more on the TestDaF website. You can also download preparation materials there.

The certificate is valid permanently. Some universities demand a ‘current’ certificate, however, meaning it can’t be more than two or three years old.

The TestDaF comprises four exam parts: Reading, listening, writing and speaking. These parts evaluate the language skills you need in order to study in Germany or to work in academia.

The price depends on the country where you wish to take the test. In Germany the TestDaF costs €195. You can take the TestDaF as many times as you like.

‘Deutsche Sprachprüfung für den Hochschulzugang’ (DSH, German Language Exam for Access to Higher Education)

You can only take the DSH in Germany. You don’t necessarily have to take the test at the university where you want to study. You can also apply to almost any university with the certificate. The only university that doesn’t recognise the DSH certificate is the University of Stuttgart.

The DSH certificate is valid permanently; it doesn't expire. Most universities demand a C1 certificate to register for the exam. You also have to pay between €70 and €150 for the exam. If you don’t pass the DSH exam, you can try again as many times as you like. You can find the approximate periods of time when the individual universities offer the DSH exam here .

You can find more information about the exam here.

💡 Please always contact the International Office at your chosen university for more detailed information.

For refugees: ‘onSET-Deutsch’ test

Refugees can use the onSET-Deutsch (previously 'onDaF') test to find out and certify their language level. Universities can provide the test for free for groups of refugees interested in studying: Please consult your university's International Office regarding this.

You can find further information about university studies for refugees here .

Course providers and counselling for language courses

What do you need to consider?

- Authorisation to attend: If you would like to attend an integration course, you can apply for a certificate of eligibility from the BAMF under certain conditions. The BAMF will then finance your course. The integration course providers and advice centres will help you with the application.
- Obligation to attend: If you are an asylum seeker or have received recognition for your residence, you may be obliged to attend an integration course by the immigration office, social welfare office or job centre. This means that you must take part in an integration course.
- Placement test: Before the course, you will take a test to see how well you speak German. This will determine which course you can start on. There are different levels to describe the language level. In a course you are with other people who have a similar language level.

Advice on integration courses

There are various organisations that can help you find a suitable language course. For example, you can search for a course in your area on the course page of the Federal Office for Migration and Refugees.

All integration course providers offer free counselling and placement for the language course. Your placement will determine which integration course you are accepted onto.

Support with finding a language course

If you are having problems finding a language course, the following services may be able to help you. The first offer is for teenagers and young adults and the second for adults.

- Internationaler Bund / Jugendmigrationsdienst for young people aged between 12 and 27.
- Migration counselling for adults aged 27 and over.

Types of language course

Depending on your residence status, you can take advantage of different language courses on offer at various levels. These are briefly explained in the following chapters.

You can also search for a language course near you on the BAMF course site.

General integration courses

The general integration course consists of a language course and an orientation course. In the language course, you will learn German up to language level B1 in 600 teaching units. In the subsequent orientation course, you will gain an insight into the culture, politics and social life in Germany.

Target group:

You may attend an integration course

- if you have a residence permit (§§ 24 or 25 Para. 5 AufenthG or § 104c AufenthG),
- if you come from a country of the European Union or are a late repatriate,
- if you have a tolerated stay permit (§ 60 a para. 2 sentence 3 AufenthG),
- if you have a residence permit,

If you successfully pass both examinations, you will receive the "Integration course" certificate.

Costs:

- If you receive citizen's allowance or asylum seeker benefits, participation is free of charge for you.
- All other persons must pay for the course themselves. You can ask the institutes how much you have to pay.

The following institutes offer integration courses in Krefeld:

- Bildungsinstitut der Rheinischen Wirtschaft GmbH
- Caritasverband für die Region Krefeld e.V.
- Integral Bildungsforum e.V.
- LernArt
- Oskar Kämmer School
- Krefeld Adult Education Centre \(VHS\)

Integration courses with literacy training

People who do not know the Latin script have an additional hurdle to overcome. They not only have to learn a new language, but also a new script. It is particularly difficult for people who cannot read and write sufficiently in their own language. In the integration courses with alphabetisation, you will learn to read and write as well as speak and understand German.

Target group and prices:

The same requirements apply for the integration course with literacy as for the general integration course.

The following institutes offer integration courses with literacy in Krefeld:

- Caritasverband für die Region Krefeld e.V.
- Krefeld Adult Education Centre \(VHS\)

Vocational Language Courses (DeuFöV)

Vocational Language Courses (DeuFöV) are designed for people who want to further their careers. You will learn specialist terminology and expressions for your industry, and you'll also do an internship during the language course. This helps you increase your possibilities on the job market and helps you get to know working life in Germany.

There are vocational language courses for different levels of language ability.

Target group:

You are allowed to attend a vocational language course in accordance with § 45a AufenthG:

- if you have already attended an integration course and/or speak German at A1, A2, B1, B2 or C1 level
- if you have a temporary residence permit (Aufenthaltsgestattung) and come from Syria or Eritrea
- if you need a further language qualification and are an EU citizen
- if you are registered as a job-seeker and/or receive support under SGB II (Hartz IV) or SGB III (unemployment benefit)
- if you are looking for a training placement, are already in training, or are currently having your vocational or training qualification recognised

Fees:

People in insurable employment have to pay €2.07 per lesson. The Federal Employment Agency, the Job Centre or the BAMF assume the costs for all other participants. Please contact one of these three offices if you would like to attend the course:

The Federal Employment Agency is responsible for

- job-seekers
- unemployed people (who receive SGB II benefits in accordance with the Social Security Statute Book)
- asylum applicants from Syria or Eritrea

The Job Centre is responsible for

- unemployed people (who receive SGB II benefits)

- refugees with a residence permit (Aufenthaltserlaubnis)

All other participants can submit an application for a vocational language course directly to the BAMF.

The following institutes provide vocational language courses in Krefeld:

- LernArt
- Volkshochschule Krefeld \(VHS\)

Intensive courses

Intensive German courses (A1-C2)

The intensive courses help you to learn German quickly and successfully. They are suitable if you need the language for your studies, your job or your personal life.

Who are the courses for?

The courses are aimed at people who would like to study in Germany and have a university entrance qualification. This includes refugees, international or immigrant applicants.

Costs

You must pay the course fees yourself.

Duplicate learning course

This course is for people who cannot read and write the Latin alphabet. Here you will first learn the Latin alphabet and then the German language. Participants learn German up to language level B1 and take the two tests "Deutsch-Test für Zuwanderer" (DTZ) and "Leben in Deutschland" (LiD) at the end.

Target group and prices:

The same requirements apply for the integration course with literacy as for the general integration course.

The following institutes offer second language courses in Krefeld:

- Krefeld Adult Education Centre \(VHS\)
- LernArt

Other language learning programmes

If you do not receive a certificate of eligibility for an official language course from the Foreigners' Registration Office, the Employment Agency or the Job Centre, you will have to pay for the course yourself. However, there are also other options for low-cost or free courses:

German with Socke

Deutsch mit Socke is a film series that helps children between the ages of 5 and 10 take their first steps in the German language. In the individual short videos, Esther (a young woman) talks to Socke (a red sock) about all sorts of things - just like in real life. Socke is red, imaginative, a bit cheeky and full of energy. This leads to many situations in which Esther and Socke speak and act together in German. Children can easily identify with Socke. This is also the aim of this material: the children - like Socke - should be able to have their say and act in the foreign language. There are activities and a student booklet to go with the videos.

The bee saviours

With this free app, children from the age of three can learn German through play. Without any previous knowledge of the language, they leave the shelter of the forest together with squirrel and bear and set off on an exciting journey to save the sick bees. On the way in the snow-covered mountains, where the lynx, the guardian of the medicinal plant, lives, they meet animals that help them and teach them more than 900 German vocabulary words. "Die Bienenretter" can be played on two different difficulty levels and offers up to six hours of fun.

Vocabulary app for children

With the "phase6 hallo Deutsch" app, school-age children (and teenagers too) learn German in a fun way while building up a sound basic vocabulary of over 1,300 important words and phrases. Each word is first introduced and then practised with various exercises. Illustrations and learning games help with this.

The programme with the elephant

The little blue elephant and his friends present stories to discover, marvel at and laugh along with, for children aged between 3 and 6. Each programme lasts around 25 minutes and is also very suitable for language development.

Children's channel WDR Maus

The site with the mouse offers knowledge programmes - explaining, for example, how an object is made or how it works - as well as audio stories, games and craft tips. A "Sendung mit der Maus" programme presents complex topics in an entertaining and understandable way for children between the ages of 6 and 9 and lasts around 30 minutes. It is also suitable for language development for children with previous knowledge.

Lingo for kids

With Lingo, children aged 8 to 12 can practise German and learn new things. There are texts to read and listen to, experiments and craft tips.

Interpreting and translating

Google translator for Chrome

You can read all web pages translated into one of more than 100 languages. Below are the steps you need to follow to use the Chrome browser for this.

1. open Chrome on your Windows computer.
2. select the three dots for More in the top right corner and then select Settings from the list
3. select Languages on the left-hand side.
4. go to the options for "Google Translator" and activate the option Use Google Translator (drag the small button to the right).
5. under "Translate to this language", select your preferred language from the list
6. under "Automatically translate these languages", German must be listed. If German is not yet listed, click on Add languages and select German from the list.
7. restart Chrome to apply the changes.

Now you can read all websites in your desired language and even fill out and submit the online forms of the city of Krefeld in your desired language.

Interpreters

You need officially trained interpreters for important appointments involving legal and statutory issues or health matters. This may be the case for an important appointment at the immigration office or with a doctor.

Volunteer interpreters are people who translate between two or more languages free of charge. They help you to understand the conversation. They do not charge any money.

Do interpreters offer their services for a fee? Then ask whether they are qualified. Also consider in advance whether the price is acceptable to you.

Please also note that interpreters do not offer advice or representation in legal matters.

You can enquire about interpreters for your language here:

- IHK Krefeld
- Interpreter and translator database

Translation of documents and deeds

Documents and deeds are very important when you arrive in Germany. You need a translation of your documents when you register at the Citizen Centre (Bürgeramt), when you apply to university and in lots of other situations.

You can search for a translator for your language here. If you need to translate multiple documents, it's worth asking different translators about their prices beforehand.

Voluntary help

A language guide is a person who will help you if you have problems understanding the German language.

For visits to the social welfare office and education authority, parents' meetings at school or kindergarten, you will initially need someone to translate for you and help you understand what is being discussed. A language guide can help you here.

At the Municipal Integration Centre of the City of Krefeld, you can get this help from the language guides. A language guide will accompany you to appointments free of charge and translate for you.

If you need help from a language guide, ask the institution where you have the appointment to organise a language guide for you. You cannot make an application as a private individual.

You can find more information and the contact details of the language guide pool at  here.

 Please note: A language guide can only accompany you to appointments at the Foreigners' Registration Office if no legal issues are discussed.

Aids to communication

If you don't speak German, it can be difficult to communicate with others. There are free resources that can help you if you have difficulties with the German language.

- Refugee Phrasebook: multilingual, free dictionary on various topics. It is a multilingual dictionary for refugees with helpful words and phrases. It is available in many languages.

You can also use free web services and apps that translate for you:

- Google Translate (→ Android and IOS)

- DeepL (works with artificial intelligence; is available in many languages)
- Voice Translator (Android), Voice Translator pro Speech (IOS)
- Oroboo Angel (mediation of language partners, free video/audio translations, 5-minute chat with extension option)
- If you have to go to the doctor, this picture dictionary can help. You can order the very affordable and helpful point it picture dictionary for initial communication directly here.
