

Things to know about Landau

Landau is in the Palatinate (Pfalz) region, in the southern part of Rhineland-Palatinate, between the Rhine and the Palatinate Forest. There are a few large cities in the area: Karlsruhe to the south, and Ludwigshafen and Mannheim to the north. Around 46,000 people live in Landau. There are eight city districts: Arzheim, Dammheim, Godramstein, Mörlheim, Mörzheim, Nußdorf, Queichheim and Wollmesheim. There are lots of fields and vineyards there. The people here celebrate lots of wine festivals.

Landau has a university and several schools. Our town features lots of parks, a zoo, swimming pools and other recreational opportunities.

Landau is a welcoming, cosmopolitan town. People of lots of different skin colours, origins and religions live here. The Landau Integration Concept is a guide for peaceful coexistence among all people in Landau.