

Social welfare office

If you do not have enough money to feed yourself and your family, you can contact the social welfare office.

The social welfare office is part of the city or district administration and helps people who are unable to work.

The social welfare office helps people who do not have enough money to feed themselves and their family.

You can receive support from the social welfare office if you do not have enough money to feed yourself and your family.

To receive support from the Social Welfare Office, you must submit proof of your personal and financial circumstances.

You should discuss the required documents with the staff at the social welfare office.

Once the application has been assessed, the social welfare office will cover the costs of food, rent and other expenses.

The Social Welfare Office only helps people who are unable to work.

People who are able to work but cannot find a job can turn to the employment agency or job centre.

The employment agency and the job centre help people who can work but cannot find a job.

These people receive benefits for living expenses in the form of unemployment benefit II.

Needy relatives living in the household receive social benefits in accordance with SGB II.
