Admission and Counseling Center, State Education Authority for the Marburg-Biedenkopf District

The Admission and Counseling Center (ABZ) in Marburg is the contact point for students with no or only little knowledge of German who move to the district of Marburg-Biedenkopf from abroad.

The offer is aimed at school-age and vocational school-age newcomers and their families. The goal of the counseling is to determine the language level and learning level of the children and adolescents and to find a suitable school and possibly a special class for them. In order to receive specific support in the German language, students with an immigrant background can attend an "intensive class" at general education schools and an "InteA class" at vocational schools.

Following the counseling interview, the ABZ establishes contact with the receiving school, with which the student's further school career will subsequently be discussed.
